Memorandum. In order to secure the advantageous offer of a parcel of antique coins in Vienna, thro' Consul Schwarz, I forwarded on May 1st 1844, a Bill of Exchange on London for £209 sterling, i.e., £207 for the coins as per agreement, and £2 for express. For this bill I paid Browns & Bowen $1,012.50, which sum was made up as follows:

Amount drawn for that purpose in December last, being balance of appropriations	$183.80
to June 30, 1843.
Amount of an overplus which Mr. Peale had from 1839, as Melter & Refiner, for	128.00 which he not being chargeable, but desires to place it in the Cabinet; whether this disposition can properly be made of it is not decided, but for the present is so used, and can be refunded and put to credit of Profit & Loss, upon receiving a new appropriation.
Cabinet gold coins, hypothecated with the Melter & Refiner, put in his custody,	720.86
and to be redeemed by the next appropriation.
Additional gold coins, hypothecated in the same way.	24.20
	1,056.86
The above left a balance in my hands, of	44.36

[Which was] Disbursed as follows:

Two boxes of cigars (1,000) for the books to accompany the coins, as agreed.	$25.00
Freight via N.Y. to Vienna, $2.05; postages $1.37; chart illustration of ancient	8.53 history $6.00; total $9.42 – deduct 89 cents on account of superfluous prices, sold.
Balance on hand, to pay for insurance, etc.	10.83
[Total]	44.36
